I realized it when I saw a CM for the movie "I finally found my prince!!" Uwaaaah! However! However! However! What the hell was with that last flirting scene?! I haven't felt this jealous in forever! (LOL) Umm, kind of like the way I felt at the part in Berserk where Griffith has sex with the Princess... But, it's not like I hate Sophie or anything. I just love Howl too much. If I saw him walking down the street, I would immediately grab him and take him home! While we're talking about it, I really prefer Howl at the start of the movie over the Howl at the end of the movie. I was thinking the entire time "Why don't you dye your hair back?!" It's hard to abandon the idea of Howl wearing a military uniform as well.

As for his butt. Well, let's just say I was glued to it. Yes. To be completely honest, I couldn't tear my eyes away from Howl's ass. While we're talking about asses, Mark! also had a very cute ass. I was pleased. And the way his hair was like a little bird's wings was also way too cute. I also became a complete fan of Kimura-kun. He happened to be a timely guest at a certain publishing company and I yelled out to myself "THIS MUST BE FATE!!" and leapt up into the air with joy. Anyway, I digress. In the scene where they go travelling in the machine, it was really hard to not look like a suspicious person and hide my smile at Mark!'s totally cute figure. It's also cool that he can't really use magic. Ahh, what if he was ten years older. Won't you draw it for us, Miyazaki-san? (No way!)

The castle in which we both lived began to accumulate more residents.
My heart.
Howl's moving Castle

Howl-san no longer leaves all the time like he did before.
Now, he's always with us.
HOWL-SAN LOOKS KIND OF SAD
AN IMAGE OF FLYING...

WELL,

IF YOU BREAK YOUR PROMISE YOU'LL DIE
You can take my heart!

Not a lot changed, but we were happy.
